

FUTURE - DENVER VA MEDICAL CENTER - AURORA, COLORADO

PROJECT EAGLE UPDATE

March, 2011

Over the last couple of weeks, ECHCS has been involved in some major presentations and publications regarding the newly release plans for the Denver VA Replacement Medical Facility. Project Coordinator Judi Guy gave a presentation to the Aurora Chamber of Commerce Defense Council at their monthly meeting, and the Aurora Sentinel published an 8 page special pullout section detailing the plans and highlighting many of the images.

We also published all of the latest renderings and images of the new facility on our Facebook and Twitter pages, www.facebook.com/DenverVA and www.twitter.com/VADenver. If you haven't been to one or both of those sites, you should check them out. In the next month, we hope to update our Project Eagle website page as well, so that we are getting the information out through all channels.

Now that the plans are complete, the real work can begin! This month, renovation of the old UPI building on the northeast corner of Colfax and Wheeling, which is now known as "Clinic Building South" will begin. This building will house administrative functions of the hospital, some Mental Health Functions, and a Department of Defense clinic for Buckley Air Force Base. This summer, major construction work will kick off with the foundation and substructure work for many of the main buildings.

The proverbial ball is rolling, and things are happening. The quickest way to be updated is to follow either the Facebook or Twitter pages above. As always, feel free to direct any questions to me. Thanks!

Respectfully,

Jordan Schupbach
Public Affairs Officer
